The U.S. Department of Education’s regulation on Unusual Enrollment History was created to identify students with an unusual enrollment history and to prevent fraud and abuse in the Federal Pell Grant Program. According to this regulation, students who have an Unusual Enrollment History flag on their FAFSA response must have their records further reviewed to determine if they have earned grades for the term in which they have received a Pell Grant disbursement. Students flagged for an Unusual Enrollment History will NOT be eligible to receive federal financial aid until the academic transcript(s) in question has been reviewed.

An email was previously sent informing you of an academic transcript(s) that was not included on your current FIU record. Please refer to this email for the name of the institution(s) for which an academic transcript(s) is required.
